

Litigation

Who Says Bigger is Better?

Commercial Litigation:

Fafinski Mark & Johnson, with its team oriented approach, has the agility to successfully resolve disputes for its clients from the simplest to the most complex of commercial litigation cases. FMJ's hands-on representation and practical business perspective are proven successful by their exceptional litigation track record. With expertise ranging from contract disputes and agreement violations to shareholder rights, we pursue litigation in courtrooms across the nation.

Beyond the actual litigation process, the FMJ team guides you through the identification and correction of the problem or potential problems. For example, FMJ attorneys briefed and argued one of the leading Minnesota Appellate Court decision involving minority shareholder disputes. The decision serves as a precedent regarding future minority shareholder disputes.

Our team's vast litigation experience has made us the ones to watch in the resolution of disputes both in and out of the courtroom.

General Litigation:

At Fafinski Mark & Johnson, our team has the command of litigation to get you the results you want. Our attorneys have a proven track record and a recognizable ability to resolve cases for our clients, large and small, which makes us a force in the legal community. Our team's expertise ranges from personal injury defense and property damage defense to medical negligence defense. We have vigorously defended our clients in courtrooms around the nation.

FMJ's litigation team is tenacious and experienced in pursuing the best outcome for you.

Insurance Defense Litigation:

Fafinski Mark & Johnson has a concentrated, team-oriented philosophy which provides our clients with the advantage of a collaborative approach to litigation. The head of FMJ's litigation group has over three decades of experience in insurance defense and coverage issues, and has brought resolution to nearly 100 tried jury insurance defense cases. Our team's extensive legal expertise and an innate interest in how things work which has made FMJ a highly successful and sought-after insurance defense litigation firm.

The team's impressive track record includes product liability, medical malpractice, premises liability, employment related liability and aviation related issues. FMJ's skilled insurance defense litigation team has successfully represented clients across the country in both state and federal courts and have appeared in courtrooms in over two dozen different states.

Product Liability Litigation:

When you get that phone call, you want to know you have a partner with knowledge you can trust to help guide your company through litigation, resolution and if necessary, appeal. FMJ has represented numerous Fortune 500 companies in product liability matters concerning preparation of warnings and execution of recalls. Our litigation attorneys work closely with your engineers and risk managers, both before, during and after litigation. FMJ represents product manufacturers and a variety of products ranging from electrical and industrial products to farm equipment and after market automotive and boating products, in addition to aircraft and aircraft engines.

Power of the Big.
Spirit of the Small.

Aviation Litigation:

Aviation is a complex and specialized area. You want experts that understand the industry on your side. FMJ's aviation litigation team has regularly handled aircraft repossessions, lease return condition disputes and FAA enforcement actions, to name a few, in courtrooms throughout the country. FMJ's senior litigation attorneys have tried many highly recognized cases, including the landmark TWA #841 rollover case.

Our elite team is well-respected in both national and international aviation circles. FMJ attorneys' diverse backgrounds, coupled with their lifelong passion for aviation, make them a unique and powerful team in the industry.
